

WHIPPED SOAP + SCRUB

I found this product in one of my favorite small grocery shops (@Rainbowacres) and fell in love. I thought it was very interesting that the body product was whipped. Anything to make a bath or shower time more intriguing encourages me to test it out.

The cucumber seaweed whipped soap + scrub is designed to gently clean and exfoliate the body. Cucumber is known to soothe skin, reduce breakouts, hydrate skin, and promote new cell growth. Seaweed is known to even out, hydrate, and heal damaged skin. This combination is magical for your skin. This product smells glorious to the point it boosts your mood. You will feel like royalty rubbing this whipped soap + scrub all over your body.

All Pacha products (@Pachasoap) are made in the USA ensuring quality ingredients and are never tested on animals. The natural ingredients used are gentle on your skin leaving out synthetic perfumes and dyes. The cucumber seaweed whipped soap + scrub is moisturizing and feels like luxurious frosting for your body.

This product comes in a circular plastic jar that is 10 FL oz large. This isn't one of those jars that are only filled halfway. This product is always filled to the top and it only costs $12. The soap suds nicely so you only need a little bit at a time. This soap + scrub gives you your money's worth. What's better than that?

Even though the exfoliant grains aren't big, they would get caught up in your razor. This product is better to take off the dead skin before shaving with a different soap. Most other products have bigger exfoliant grains which can be very harsh on delicate skin. Pacha products have just the right amount of natural exfoliants to use multiple times per week. Nobody wants to bleed or get a rash from using too rough of a body scrub.

This heavenly product is great for any man, woman, or child. It's an excellent product to use before any type of photoshoot or beach day where your skin is exposed more than usual, giving you your healthiest glow. The value of this product is tremendous from the cost, the amount of product, the natural ingredients, the fragrance, and the great feels it gives you.
